NICOLE C. ELGIN

503.276.2109 | nelgin@barran.com | www.barran.com

Nicole Elgin represents employers in traditional labor and employment law matters. Nicole's labor practice ranges from negotiating collective bargaining agreements to representing employers in hearings before arbitrators, the Oregon Employment Relations Board, and the National Labor Relations Board. Nicole's employment law practice includes working with employers to adapt workplace policies to the latest legislative changes at the state and national levels. Prior to joining Barran Liebman LLP, Nicole was a judicial extern for the Honorable Michael H. Simon at the United States District Court for the District of Oregon. Nicole was also a research assistant to Professor Henry Drummonds at Lewis & Clark Law School where she researched global labor relations trends and drafting non-compete agreements that can be enforced worldwide.

Nicole received her J.D., cum laude, from Lewis & Clark Law School. She served as the Managing Editor of Lewis & Clark Law Review and received several honors and scholarships, including the Allen Hein Memorial Scholarship, Community Service Honors, and Best Oral Advocate, to name a few. Prior to her time at Lewis & Clark, Nicole earned her B.A. in Spanish and Political Science from the University of Washington. During her undergraduate studies, Nicole studied abroad in The Hague at several international courts, including the International Court of Justice. Nicole served as the 3L Liaison to Lewis & Clark Law School on the Multnomah Bar Association Young Lawyers Section Board. In addition to her academic and professional involvement, Nicole has served as a mentor at Rosemary Anderson High School where she helps young women learn anger management, effective communication, and goal setting. Nicole speaks Spanish and is beginning to learn German in her spare time.
